PS: 10 100-75cm: Problematic layer

Notes: I took a tour up Jim's creek with the intention of reckoning some new ski lines on a south facing aspect when I stumbled across a nice protected north facing sparkly open 30cm. No real widespread crusts were present, nevertheless, my main concern would be triggering the wind slab about 40cm down. The lower half of the snow pack seemed very stable and couldn't get anything to propagate.
