 100-98cm: Problematic layer

Notes: N thru W aspects on the north slope of the Uintas have been stripped more than usual from the strong December wind events. HS is generally only around one meter because of this. 4F facets near the ground are still dry and not changing much. Its been so long since the last real storm, this layer is dormant for now. New variable rime crust at the surface from 1/21. Will it persist??
